The key idea here is to make sure that you have the "pipeline" filled with women to date.

You have to set the foundation here about having a system in place so that you date women with ease and confidence.

In your dating life you have to have these elements in place and to also have them mastered: you have to understand them too.

-Go out to clubs, parties, bars, speed dating events, art shows and the like on Thursday, Friday, and Saturday to harvest dates.

-Sunday, Monday, Tuesday, and especially Wednesday are slow days so you want to schedule your dates on those days.

-What you want to do is call the women you got numbers from after 5 pm. make sure that you always call at the same time so that you are consistent.

-Make sure that you diversify the channels by which you game girls.

The last point I want to look at in greater detail. It's just better to have your dates coming from diversification, like investing.

The same is true for dating.

Just don't get too carried away with what's called the cold approach, as you will get better faster if you don't.

It's a bit useless. It's not very realistic to spend all of your time going up to random strangers and asking them for a date.

You could do it, but the learning curve is just too long.

This is the only thing you really have to do:

-Do speed dating. From speed dating alone, you will get a lot of dates.

-Do a lot of online dating. Again, tons of dates (If you know what you are doing.)

-Attempt to develop a social circle and get invited to events. The great thing is that there are a ton of single women at these events and they are looking to date.

-Yoga will make you flexible and strong which women will notice: go 15 minutes early. You will get a lot of dates going to yoga class.

-You won't believe the hot girls at the community colleges night classes. Take art appreciation class, or even a dancing class. Hey man, there's almost all girls there.

Do these simple things and dating women will be a breeze for you and you will always keep your pipeline filled!
